THE THAYER Hotel

With the richness of tradition and the promises of tomorrow...

The sprawling, three winged structure is made of granite from the local area. The facade resembles a replication of a medieval fortress with its Gothic windows, crenelated roof lines and turrets overlooking a steep, rocky cliff and the Hudson River. To all who have seen or heard of it, it is a grand mass of European architecture. To all who know it, it is "The Thayer".

The full service restaurant is open daily offering breakfast, lunch, and dinner. In the summer months, one can dine on the Hudson Terrace with a view of Constitution Island and the Hudson River. Relax with friends or business associates in the lounge.

The Hotel has played host to many dignitaries including presidents, ambassadors, movie stars, and sports figures. Dwight D. Eisenhower was the first president to stay in the Presidential Suite. General Douglas MacArthur would reside here whenever he visited West Point.
